Summary: How life is so much like the ocean as a Parable in poetry...

A rock falls off the mountain side,
Here it comes through it all,
Ever so small!
It comes down to rest, there beings a test...
Too leave the nest,
Roll along,
Within this song.
Hard at first,
Comes with a burst;
This isn` t rehearsed!
Smashes you free,
You start to see?
With its might pushes us clean,
Ever so mean?
You get reimbursed,
Not you` re always cursed;
Unless the pains are pursed!
Part of the sea,
in each other we see;
Rocks in your path,
Having a laugh!
Stay on track,
without the lack!
Stay strong,
Bumps hit you,
All day long!
Moulds you,
Not scolds you!
Get use too the flow,
On the outside,
It will show!
If you get with the groove;
With time you become smooth!
Free floating along,
Within the sea...
Yet Lookout!
Here comes lava;

With another palaver!
People under pressure,
Tell many lies;
Causes such confusion,
It's their own solution!
They get so hot,
They've let pain rot!
So learn to adjust,
Stay just;
Though Keep your track,
Don't fall back;
No more lack!
Stay solid in that fact,
Lies are their disguise!
Help them see,
Break them free,
In this sea!
Release them from their pressures,
No attachments,
Or treasures!
Learn to move,
With the tide,
Not to hide;
What are good is implied;
If fully applied!
Shape our selves,
this is our wealths!
Be smooth, Like a youth;
In these are truth!
Oh so strong,
Never going wrong;
Learn to find completeness,
Even though may seem a weakness.
Learn too flow as one,
In this ocean of glorious song.
