Summary: A way to look at life's ups and downs as movements of a rock i

To begin with we all start from a big rock being God, as all energy in the and maintained by God.
So to begin with as you fall from being part of the mountain side, you ar and one obstacles as you first become part of the ocean.
Most of that is to shape you, for as the rock smashes free of the other ro break it or become more smooth.
You see with no control of where life might take us, we are very much lik around by other rocks and where the tides take us. The skill and why the and too learn to develop as a pebble would; whilst some just become san is there to help you, though it may not seem so; it is down to the rock to You see when a wave comes and you are aware that it was coming, you c advance of it, so on the next push it goes that way you need.
Yet for many of us with current media helping to develop sand and not pe help, well that is unless you realize that is also part of the tide and ther is you need too be, to perfect the art of pebble making.

With everything that happens in your life, it is like rocks smashing or rul understand where and why the bounce happened each time and what was you can learn to adept from these.
So rather then carry a big chip on your shoulder which is easier to see a the pieces and continue as a whole rock.
Many of us forget that we are always the rock and that really we can mov other way around; yet as I said earlier current media is trying to make us Each one of us has the ability through being a stable rock to others to h that is easier to float along in.
Yet when we are already being classed as sand and having not based our with, we have confused our self's.

You see you can not stop being, just what you end up as, is all down to t
So if someone bumps you, ask your self where and why they have done th them back to help guide them on to the track they are meant to be on; no

Yet In all of this be aware of lava, lava is when someone has gotten so t experiences it has heated up the rock.
If you look at that in perspective of the ocean, you are pebble or semi pe on the ocean bed, and you will see the winding and heat given off by sai the current.

Things start happening to you that wouldn't normally, now many of us thi them; we can't they have to fix them self's.
You can give to much and often loose your self in the process and all yo fire with more fuel to be burned.
You see the sea can cool them, being life, yet not if everyone is so busy is aggravating that rock even more; so heating it even more.
The best is to let them find it them self's, by being solid as a pebble you When you are broken stone all you do is cause more turmoil your self, as pebble or rock and the water flow surrounding it (karma).

The end purpose of all of this is to one day end up on the beach as a sm to get there require not being broken into sand along the way.

So when we base our trust in sand as hopefully this now finishes, we wil mountain is huge and the sea contain many of it's self's.
So when we declare all are lava to begin, it doesn't help any of us get al trust on the rock, we also learn it stands solid against the test of time a ocean, yet instead moves it.
So this is where and what we should also, not to be broken at the first o somewhere in the ocean; hoping no one else will steal the same space; y is sort of showing, of course something will take the space. It is the way the next and shapes the others.
So in trying to hide in a deeper hole then all the rest, when an obstacle hard, as if that pebble falls down that same hole you made your self, it w blind your way from moving on again, as all need to, to be able to contin ocean.
As is life and what this ocean is for, as who wants a load of broken pebb attempts at making it across the ocean.
When on the other hand you have group who are so determined to stay ap haven't even remembered or realized they have left to begin with.

There are quite a few of us trying to fill up the broken bits with any cher this doesn't work. As the sea is a harsh reality; anything that is not natu ocean, so it is no good trying to glue on broken bit and fill up the cup.
The more you try and fill it, the further it takes you away from your self As each of them knocks was to teach you to begin with, so if you try tam end up as lava and get no where as in whom you are meant to be.
The only way to move on, is to understand that the bit broken happened balance with the waves; so that slowly you understand most situations th the ocean bed and then one day make it to the beach as a pebble where
