Summary: Defining a new universal system, that we already call Oneness

Theological Oneness

In many of the world's religions, Oneness is the ultimate goal; it is a def is the essence of our reality. We all seek Oneness in many different way we want to find some sense of community. At a biological level, we creat so that we can reproduce a part of ourselves within that Oneness. People in nature, from the connection to a Oneness within everything. There fee that though we try to fill it with different activities, it doesn't fully make One.

Religious Oneness

The many different religions around the world are all trying to describe t an ethical society, that can live together in harmony. The issue of religio that we need to unite the concepts, and then look for a universal consen where there is then a more moral social ethical system. There is no good systems for each religious culture - as we're one world living together, a policies globally, for us all not to offend each other.

Political Oneness

Currently the world has been taught that a republic is a democracy, and for people to represent our thoughts on topics; the problem with this is, individual away, making it that we feel we don't have a choice to affect r
