Summary: God is the true teacher of all, a mistake in translations, has m yet he clearly said God is.

Many believe Christ to be the teacher and that he said he was, from this Quote:

Mat 23:7-11 and greetings in the market-places, and to be called, Rabbi! must not be called Rabbi, for One is your teacher, Christ, and you are al one your father on the earth, for One is your Father in Heaven. (10) No is your Teacher, even Christ. (11) But he who is greatest among you sh

When you look at what he was talking about, he would be directly contrac statement. Verse 7 says that he is talking about people wanting to be ca then would he say not to be called rabbi and then that he is the rabbi.
The reason this has been mistranslated is due to the ancient Greek. You which means "the Christ". Yet "á½• Christos" with a dash above it, is a q Christ". In the original king James it was correctly translated, as presum contained the dash.

Mat 23:7-11 and greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabb called Rabbi: for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven. (10) for one is your Master, even Christ. (11) But he that is greatest among

You see this makes far more sense and makes it so Christ doesn't look li he points all to God. In other words Christ is saying that God is the Devi many times; he only knows what the father teaches and shows him.
Yet it seems, as time has gone by, the translation has been lost and man mistranslate this, making Christ out to be God, as did John and Paul.
