I agree with Wizanda that everyday is good. I think to many people get lost in the idea of worship on. It's the INTENT of the worship that's important. Not what day.

The original intent (during Jesus's time) was to set a day aside to go into a quiet place and talk to your Heavenly Father.

I witnessed to many times where people have turned it into a ritual and habit. Society promotes that, keep them busy so they don't connect with the Father. Spiritually strong humanity? Good question.

Don't get caught up in technicalities, what is the intent. The Pastor, Priest, or Minister is there to GUIDE you, you still have to do the studying.

Oh, by the way the original meaning of a Sin was an archery term meaning to miss the mark. So do some people think it mean failure, when all you did was missed the mark. You go back and correct it.
