I will state again... nothing is needed but the mind and body. Sometimes overcomplicate answers to questions. My energy, the light within me, and does not need a crystal. Do not abuse "free will"... You will quickly find prophet. There is no need to back yourself up with religious ideology. The way in this age. Is telling someone that they have free will simply present. Why does one need to be told that one has free will? Doesn't that contradict will? Is free will actually a walking contradiction? I have free will and I this, no one has to tell me. But for me to tell others a lie... that a crystal same as telling them that wearing a shark tooth around their neck will give want to argue this point... if this is what this site is going to turn into.. continue my works in the true light of Indigo... which is apart from material insecurity. No one needs to wear anything or carry anything to make them of words...
