Some of the new revelations from the Gospel of Peter about the family and include the following:

1. The Wedding at Canaan, where Jesus performed his first public miracle was his own marriage ceremony.

2. Jesus was not married to Mary Magdalene, as Dan Brown states in his book. He was married to Martha, sister of Lazarus and Mary of Bethany. This explains the location of Bethany and why this family was so important to him. He wept at the death of Lazarus as he was his own brother in law!

3. Jesus and Martha had no children. As Peter describes the condition, "no motza balls."

4. In the current version of the scriptures, the mother-in-law of Peter is not mentioned. He was married. More revelations about Peter's family are found in this gospel. Peter was polygamous. After the ascension, he takes Martha to be his second wife.

5. The reason that Jesus asked his Apostle John the Beloved to care for him after he was hanging on the cross was because Joseph (his stepfather) and Zebedee were his brothers. Mary, therefore, was the aunt of this author of The Gospel of John the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd John. She was also mother to the Apostle James the Leeper and the Baptist.

6. Peter describes walking on the water as being, "a slippery thing. It happens only if on ice on a winter's morning." While many ridiculed the Apostle for lack of faith, readers that they should remember that he is the only one that had the faith to walk at all.

Other new information from this Gospel of Peter include some doctrinal revelations about the new church:

1. All church buildings were to include a large cultural hall for large concerts and basketball games.

2. Christmas carols in an early form were actually invented shortly after the birth of Jesus. They were sung and church Christmas Pageants and the birth story was acted out by children wearing tin-foil haloes.

3. Priests in the church were to celebrate their calling, not to be celebrated somewhere in the translation and copying).
4. All congregations were to hold annual pancake breakfasts and spaghetti dinners (Roman congregations) to raise money for youth group activities.
5. When original collection plates were passed after church sermons, the attendees would give larger donations for the ones with nuts or raisins in them.
6. There was no such thing as holy water. Peter's grandchildren, trying to be souvenier hunters, sold bottles of "The Holy Christ's Night Waters." Over time, the word "Christ" was apparently dropped.
7. The Apostle Paul was not shipwrecked on an island. He was a participant in the "Survivor" game.
8. An eleventh commandment, "Though shall learn that life is not fair," was added to the book of Exodus. The same thing occurred with one of the phrases in the book. The commandment should properly state, "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife." Some time in history, the word "daughter" was omitted.
