Now with many people hooked on some part of life and some of those lost this is to show how every addiction is the same source a need for dopamine is how to fix the issue.

Now many people assume a drug addict is something different to them see on the subject.

As many people we all meet at some point get hooked on a bad addiction some of us who have to have a coffee in the morning or play squash every day. It's the same thing a need for this lack of dopamine, now what does stimulate explaining for those who don't know.

It is the chemical released by the brain when you enjoy your self, now the sources or activities, yet is this same chemical.

Now with the mistake in many peoples languages of missing unconditional love and many presume this to be love and missing the real love that is already here. Now in some of us we try everything searching desperately for this chemical for our self's.

Now some believe the drugs made this and this is sort of a big error by themselves responsible whether they like it or not.

As when the Bible contains cannabis as being holy as do a lot of other religions to a shaman and in that Christ was a shaman as clearly written.

Yet that is separate point and can get very long winded, for those who wonder and why yet given the anointing oil contains cannabis as written and official can not be called a drug, if it is holy and as such then a large epidemic with additional support would solve so many problems.

As officially due to this every church should endorse cannabis use and government is on the subject of another chemical as it is vitamin M

Dopamine is then produced by said Anandamide which is also stimulated considering we are dealing with a root of brain activity.

Do you not see when half of us swap from one dopamine stimulant to another in disrespect of any religious books world wide the church condemns that or not. Now this may sound to many we have got it all back to front and we will prove all of this daily and are willing to go to trial to prove said facts, yet the opposite.

So all these dogmatic people who instantaneously go against most of the world's drug yet a medicine that dates back through out our world, it heals many people and so many other Christ was called a magician by many.

Yet all it is the holy anointing oil, now the point being is it relatives and cannabis only partially and maybe allowing this to be encouraged may help the church we have been in.

It is disgusting especially when hell is ego, and so in that we have to wa coffee oops another vitamin oh and chocolate.

Now people also get addicted to them also containing Anandamide and vi senses.

Now instead of people getting hooked on heroine and man made pharmaco oil as intended and then we can have real world as it was before we ban those who haven't read brave new world the substance given to relax the something new it is simply a Christian?

So really who are most Christians kidding? Them self's our children and something doesn't change about this.

Anyways we will get that to be an article, yet first there is a large sectio addictions with everyone included as all have addictions, it is just recog our self's and that is in fact an addiction so we swap and change, yet re our self's not that I know of, and anyone else who is human for that matt
So if you can see all addictions come from one source lack of Anandamid can be maintained by humming or meditation as Buddhist like to call that melody that we all have, it is not allowing your heart to be filled up with least.

That helps understand it is in all and we can hum all day releases Anand slightly where as cannabis not dried yet made as perfumer would as to al to be added to oils causes them to bond, and in that we have multivitami intended 2000 years ago.
