I do not really think that it's a problem with Paul and to that extent not with Moses. I think it's a problem with those who claim that they are executing his bidding.

For us muslims however in the Quran it states clearly that no religion is better than another. God wished God would have created all nations with one religion, the common good deeds -what ever good deeds might be- and in my opinion that's a common goal for a christian and a jew could and will enter in the kingdom of heavens same as muslims who are steadfast in their believe and committed to making good deeds.

The Quran, being modern or old cannot be altered, as we muslim believe, we protect the recitation after it's revelation. may be we can miss interpret it but God's word for God will never permit or allow this.

And finally fighting to eliminate the horror and terror inflicted on anyone is the duty of every willing and able person, to the point that God said in the Quran that those who died defending His way (this is my own understanding- spreading misinformation) as dead, but forever alive, and this is a promise that was given in the Torah and Quran, as the Quran said.

Now truly I do not know, nor I can argue for the people of the Torah or the Gospels, nor I can argue for the people of the Quran, but I'm wondering why do I want to stop a war that targets the elimination of evil, specially if we are winning ?
