Last night i was blessed with a sighting. After praying for approximately one night, sometimes for hours, i was finally blessed with a sighting from the God/yahweh etc. Now when i first started trying to do this... i felt nothing one night i just had this feeling, and this thought "give it time"... so i did next month i went outside hoping praying and talking about everything that Then i began to feel something... i'd get a little tired, and my head would spinning/lightheaded... i thought hmm maybe this is what being psychic k idea i'm not psychic to my knowledge) Yet i wanted more, but when i didn't angry, i got mad and said.. i come out here every night, for hours, and y anything. So i stopped going outside as frequently, and for less and less when i was hoping for a sighting, something told me to learn the scriptures lay in the grass and notice it's texture... and i started to do these things happy, more living/caring etc. Well this all leads up to last night. As i was something tugged at me, not physically, but mentally, to go outside... and look David"... so low and behold i found myself outside again, praying, a been doing and studying. Suddenly i looked across the street and a HUGE extremely low... and before i could get a real good look at it, it went behind "Is this it? that's it? i'm not even sure if that was really a UFO... what a light go behind a tree?" you know?! then i'd sound like every other UFO kind of happy.. but a little dissapointed. Now the reason i know this was whomever i am in contact with.. was because i was recieving excrutiating and i was immediatly overcome with goose bumps, and i had a smile from was instilled in me... i didn't even notice i was reacting this way until i then went into my front yard... and just started feeling like ONE with nature in.. truly appreciating it.. and again i started to get this tug... so i went time... i was givin a sighting i could not deny. There was what i thought skies... and as i watched it.. it appeared to be moving very slowly (it looked but a bit brighter) so i moved to where it was right next to a tree... so i moving or not... and it was.. suddenly it became EXTREMELY BRIGHT... again i was overcome with joy and love, and goosebumps, and the smile as it was there.. it slowly dimmed out, i could still make out a small black flew straight down, and behind some trees. I was so happy, i gave thanks inside... but i was tugged at again! i was thinking... geez, you've already believe you, thank you! you don't need to show me anymore if you don't v or your technology. But it didn't want to... again this extremely bright light directly over head of me. so there was no mistaking what it was, it was c trees and what not. And it did the exact same thing it had just done, got eventually dissapeared. Now i feel this last one was just to assure me of saying here.. look here i am right up above you, so you have no doubt wh the same things i just did. So i gave thanks... but before i did i gave an whatever message it was it intended to give, and that if it allowed me i v means of it's power. So with that i have to say... i love you all, and the unity... come together, everyone, there is only one God, and appreciate because changes are near on planet Earth. I am so excited i bet this doc but sorry.. if this happened to you i think you'd be the same way :) there these things.... but it's a process, you must prove your trust and love, a willing to talk out about it.
