I agree,

Yet will also add my latest theology just to remember no image!

If there is a painting, there is a painter. Now from reasoning what is in the painting, we can never understand the painter. Yet the painting is not the painter, also in understanding the painter, we can never understand some of the dynamics of the painter's character, i.e. expression.

I would say some of these are called Zen = Natural beauty and wisdom contained in the creation. Tao/Dao = logic of the universe and wisdom contained in the creation. Theology makes love definitely says we have a loving God (Painter)
