I think Yashua did keep it simple. I am a christian, by that i mean a follower that fits in with regular denominations tho.. Seems i am always at war with their lack of sacredness, immortality of the wicked and false religious spirits in the system.

I feel the seventh day (sabbath) is sacred, that the wicked are not immortal. I've been tested to see who they are! The bible seems to be tampered with, some people say it is enough there to get the job done.

I feel; Its not the bible that seems to be the problem.. Its mans private interpretation and false spirits in the system, that twist everything around. They cant get it, they dont know the bible now and can put the truth in the light really quick.. And that's why they leave the most churchs anymore.. Its like a war zone when i go in one of them; because of the fake doctrines, using the same bible they do.

Its at that point a wicked spirit usually steps into the leader, to get control. I wouldnt believe what i have seen in these places.

However i do honor Yashua as Gods only begotten son, who came and died to save the earths delimma of insanity, corruption, greed, and evil! Thank you Yashua!
