Unconditional Love

Unconditional Love is a fine notion, but is delusion just the same. How long can unconditional love last in a person forced to watch their own family members die? Even God's love is conditioned on his own benevolence.

Love is, by far, the most glorious flower in the garden of life, but it requires certain conditions in order to grow and flourish.

Human love is a feeling and a metaphysical energy that requires benevolence to be shared. Without these things, there is no love.

Love can not prosper in a hostile environment.
