Very intresting read, thank you for posting!!

I agree in some sense's yet if you read my post on the 13 dimensions and see where i found them and why i say they are as they are you are right scientist do stop at matter that as far as i can see is the 6th dimension, yet when i died i saw there then later through God showing me the rest i begun to understand the rest. The universe is created, when i died i saw that the whole universe is made of spirit and all that does exist dense quarks with out much vibration are hell/valley (was the original word). High level quarks have transcended the other dimension and matter and all. it took me a while to make sense of it, from what i had seen when i died. The 8th dimension is infinity and cylindrical as you say yet the 9th is chaos as it is out side of a time frame and isnt created yet so the universe is in a continues state of unfolding and being created. the reason i say it is created, is there is to much that is unexplainable ie most things function correctly at a sub atomic level if it hadnt been created even after millions of years, i doubt we would be here. this is hydrogen as all would be ever changing also there is many things that function in symbiosis as if made to function even with evolution and things learning to adapt this wouldn't happen as the only reason it is hard to see is we are making a mess of it also many creatures have missing links within the evolution theory. No a. Also if all is quarks, in the beginning as many beliefs say, there was nothing. all was chaos, you could say it was matter and anti matter mixing with each other then from within this something caught a part of existence, ie God. from there he wished to see what he/it was so he made a reflection of himself. why the bible says us, in genesis.

the reflections where wisdom and the beginning of all isnt genesis easier to follow then this? lol then from there, structure for how quarks would interact was created this has unfolded into how we now see things this is from something i was shown and also how our brains and babies are made another to make its self if the smallest things in the universe work on similar principles, so do the many of the ways of God from what we live in.

this is true Zen as i see as most Zen koans are taken from nature and something has extreme intent

What do you think?
