The site has just had another improvement in terms of ease of use...
When you wish to add a movie or music system, as well as the standard X insert code...
we now have one for these features that will auto fill in after you supply

- Flash
- Windows media player
- Multimedia Messaging Service
- Real media player
- Iframe
- Wiki

All of these can be used if you have any of these, that belong to you, thi copied that are copyrighted...
Well in some cases....
For instance with an iframe, this basically allows you to make a window in a lot of cases this is not taking anything as it is still there

Yet to have music that is not released yet, or the author has team of law just be careful
Ok easy version of adding files also goes like this...
Go to http://www.youtube.com Google videos and Yahoo Here you will find many videos and films with most music, on the side of movie you like, there is code to add direct into a site..
Copy that code as it is...
Paste that code as writing into the forum..
and press submit.. it will take the code and make it into what it says and you have post with

Also of those who have more programming and code experience there are editors, that can basically make any web styles you like... so if you want and are clever enough you could also place the movie in a coloured and have titles introduction and much more....

As you see we did with our own music player..ect
