If in all of life we find unconditional love, woven into the very fabric of existence, the nature of all animals is to procreate and find a partner; so in that we see part of God's design showing, yet not all, as God is more logical (listen how the bird song teaches us to love).

We as beings produce chemicals in the brain, when we are in love with someone. Yet have you noticed if you are tired this is then lower; so in that is part of God's design basing our love in matter.

There is a higher source of unconditional love which originates transcendentally, referenced with this:

When you see a child do something so special and innocent and it makes you feel real Love (as it is pure).

When we put lust in love, then assume to believe that is love, it over shadows the real love that comes from to begin...

We accept parts of our self in them; we see things we relate to and accept them as one, yet often losing a big part of ourselves as we think that came from them.

You see here are the dimensions up to 13th and God's throne room....

6th Matter

7th Anti-matter

8th Infinity

9th chaos

10th Matrix

11th unconditional love

12th wisdom

13 God

Oneness (Heaven) being 11 which is unconditional love as an energy source. See the Horizon "Parallel universes" video (where they are attempting to break into Heaven though they can't see it properly or fully even know it is there "properly").

So when Heaven's love source is transcendental and is beyond infinity, then we are blooming and reckoning....

Reckoning for this reason, if you had a brother or a son who was so special, you would want them to do your job...

Yet they were murdered, when you could have finished the whole cause a just once, yet many prophets) started..... wouldn't you think there would

So in that is unconditional love also, to allow it over time to see and test over many life times (many chances)...

Yet people haven't realized in this day and age (reincarnation) they have though the books still say this, people aren't taught it and in that also is

My ideas of unconditional love is written up in Articles across the site, o base our emotions on isn't real, yet is pertaining to the true reality of G is also unconditional love to have paths to follow....
