You said: "God created everything, yes. and there is tons of scientific evidence. I am scientifically minded and so I am glad that you are!"

Where is the scientific evidence?

Reasoning alone should demonstrate if what someone is saying is right or wrong and you are not, doesn't make any difference unless you show WHY... to believe in something just because it is said it or because this book said so...even if believed to be holy doesn't make it true. If you are not scientifically minded, how can you say that there are "tons of scientific evidence"?
