With analysis of the world's religions, we can understand how the religious beliefs have been obscured over time.

For us to repair the polarization of society, we'd have to recognize that there are no boundaries, that we all have to keep to.

In ancient times religions started our spiritual practises; yet it slowly became an observance instead, as the religious leaders have made it about their needs.

If mankind could evolve to understand that we need a moral social cohesion, and not ideologies, it allows us all to have the same destination between us.

'Connection to the Source of reality', was called 'Yoga'...

Where there are many awakened souls around the world, that have learned to find a sanctuary without having the religious leaders involved, and so people have found an alternative; yet it can miss out on many of the deeper wisdoms, that emerge from a path through a moral societal structuring.

We need to unite our religious ideas globally, as to avoid the ongoing conflicts. A new global religious movement between us, we can stop the bigotry, and make the truths available to us.

For us to go from an age of limitation, to an age of enlightenment, it takes wisdoms to understand; not ignoring them, and then hoping the problem goes away.
