Because many people have first hand experience that the Source of reality is life, with tangible things.

Then they seek what caused it from books, were some of it is ancient superstition based on the same Source of reality, inspiring some people within their lives.

To dismiss all of the evidence, without a careful investigation is foolhardy. The Source of reality (God), and ultimately we have to honour that concept to avoid rejecting it.

It would be like saying there is no CPU, when we're fictional computer generated, we've never seen the processor that makes our reality.
