A religion is a group of people with a belief system, often trying to teach moral social responsibility.

Why would a group of people trying to aspire to creating peace, want to

If we think about it, we can show that religion and government was one of the societal leaders, used the religious values to make a nation fight another

Yet can we deem that the religion is what wants the wars or is it the government would do so; where people's belief in something higher than them is often used and not to cause harm to others?
