There is no reason in a random universe for there to be a mathematically implies it had to be formulated in some way, for it to have patterns withi

Science currently guesses that this advanced mathematical matrices (Per produced over billions of years; yet random systems would have random random, and it is static.

If it was that at a micro level, we could suggest that certain physics inevit mathematical structuring to take place, why would there be an advanced (Fibonacci Sequence) interwoven into everything across the universe? Th other than there being some form of central Source, that caused it to be same.

This by the way, was where ancient Greek Logic suggested that Chronos from the random quantum physics (Nyx) that existed before it.
