I've realized something very profound, not only there in the language, yet within these polar opposites.

For many years I've had depression, which I've not known the cause, whether person, yet due to many traumas, and conditioning, I've slowly not liked

Yet within the defining the language, that I've been Misanthropic for many years. I'm continually striving to be more Philanthropic, helps by seeing these defining how there is a calculation taking place.

For example when humans have done bad things to me, I've slowly added that humans are dangerous; yet then realizing it is specific types of character means it can then be defined, and rectified.
