@Aaron Abke - Sorry yet we can't start the ontology of God, with what we

We're down near Hell, where this world is an 'Enclosed Garden' (Paradise is dark; Yeshua called this world Gehenna, which is the top floor of Hell in

This world is to be incinerated down to a quantum level, and restored back according to religious prophecy globally (Zoroastrianism - Frashokereti, Israelite/Islam - Judgement Day, Norse - Ragnarök).

The universe is going to collapse, and the Bible is an exam to see who is Adharmic), these are to be removed from reality at Judgement Day, which is prophesied by Yeshua; mixing theology with Pharisaic ideas about reality is Prytsim by definition (basically "if the blind follow the blind", it is like following the Pits of Hell).

"The Golden Rule" is not salvation, the word Yeshua means Salvation (Hebrew insult meaning 'a Beast that Tramples Down/Tares Away').

We gain salvation by listening to Yeshua: "going the extra mile", "turning the other cheek when someone takes, and basically proving we're unconditionally loving (not our desires down near Hell (Maya)); basically we're down here practising to be good leaders have twisted what those sent by God have explained.

Yet let's define what Salvation means in full eschatological context, this world is recreated as Betelgeuse goes supernova; when this takes place God will judge us kept to Yeshua's (Salvation's) standards, those who honour the spirit of the Holy Spirit/Messiah, and those who've virtually understood that we're all Avatars (Ego).

We can understand going from a Christianized upbringing that God is like a Father, it's easy to go from that, to creating God as some perfect benevolent kind Father. Faith is more like God is like a CPU (Universal Central Processor) manifesting reality, and we're all in a computer game - when the reality is reset, God cares about us, yet computer game characters can be recreated.

This is where Yeshua said if God wished, he could turn rocks into better bread (Luke 19:40), and our ego/desires, makes us think that we have importance in the universe.

Whilst you are both still arguing against Pharisaic Christianity (John, Paul, & Simon Petros) to see the bigger picture, as the Pharisees have set everyone up as prop

Yeshua came to lay a Snare by his testimony in Isaiah 8:11-22, to see 'what would be the result of a living'; the Pharisees then placed the Messiah into the Bed of the King (Matthew 28:9-19+20-21) as they are Prystim, and sold mankind the idea that the Messiah was a 'sin offering' - defiling Isaiah 53:10.

If people were listening to Yeshua's words, they'd realize he came to challenge the Sanhedrin for murdering the prophets, and claiming that their death's could be atoned for (Matthew 23:27-38, Matthew 15:1-9, Mark 7:1-13, and the Parable of the Sower (Matthew 21:33-46, Mark 12:1-12, Luke 20:9-19)).

There is literally a verse in Ezekiel 33:12 that says, 'that the righteous will not count for another person's sin', so what we've been taught by the Pharisees & the Apostles. God allowed this all to take place to catch out the demons who'd follow the Pharisees. The Bible is about (establishing a Snare down near Hell), not some free gift of grace. It has been taught by John, Paul, & Simon petros.
