I'm shocked at Bart Ehrman's lack of scholarly appraisal, of why Saul tau fulfilled by Christ; it wasn't some random ideas made up by the Christian

Also shocked at the lack of historical acknowledgement that the early Eb the Just, didn't teach that Christ came to die as a sin sacrifice, which is Book of Acts.

Paul rewrote the Gospel when he made up Christianity (Acts 11:25-26), a Yehoshua/Yeshua/Immanuel called "petros" to fulfil prophecy of the 'stum Isaiah 8:14), and that is where the Christian Church got their atonement

In Matthew 15:1-9 & Mark 7:1-13 Yeshua is challenging the Sanhedrin for deaths counted for atonement (Matthew 23:27-38), and he said in the Par Husbandmen that they'd do the same about him (Matthew 21:33-46, Mark

I can't believe Bart also used a standard Christianized view point for Yes
"Ransom", and doesn't use an academic standard citing the Biblical Laws

No one can pay God, and God doesn't accept Ransom (Psalms 49:7); so Y that "ransom" meant he was a human sacrifice, and especially not 'the Fi sins of your transgressions' (Micah 6:6).

At the Last Supper the consensus in the Synoptic Gospels is Yeshua said for many" - which it was; yet inserting that meant he was declaring he is him contradict the Hebraic legal standards.

I can understand that Bart Ehrman used to be a Christian, and so is still & Simon peter's Pharisaic conclusions, yet it isn't a secular academic underst being stated, it is making it fit with Christendom.

Yeshua gives a clear itinerary of the eschatology in Matthew 24, Mark 13 temple destruction ("not when he came back"), then a time of the Exile a Judgement Day coming on the whole of mankind as Betelgeuse goes supe Messianic Age - therefore it isn't failed prophecy, as it was all fulfilled things still to be fulfilled soon, as we will see as all Nations gather agai
