i just want to reply to brendalee... i'm nt going to say we came from mon proven that over time DNA does mutate... we do in fact have a tail bone made us into something else first and then we evolved... how do you kno man looked like? maybe God created us in a sense as to say he gave us our higher awareness, out abilities to compute at extremely high levels.. ask me i think evolution and intelligent design go hand in hand. The fact does take place here on Earth... but evolution of a species is not to say is simply the changing of a species over time because of their environme mutations. God is supposidly perfect... so if he intended for things to ch we can also change it does not mean God is not perfect or that God does in religion, it only intends to prove it. So many times people think scienc without religion there might well be no science. Religion stimulated our r answers and truths. Keep that in mind, science and religion work hand in prove what religion claims. If there was nothing to prove or disprove, we in the scientific community. Our religious beliefs drive us to search the u answers that we can better understand. anyway love y'all, no harm intend
