Your welcome Dude,

Now I wonder where Brenda has got to these days, she is a lovely person Yet her Church told her not to look at my site and I haven't heard from her

I agree with you I know it is my site, yet I found as I have been other sites
That there are so many conservative christian sites, pretending to be religious saying anything, you are in fear of being banned all the time if you say too much Here though when I say open discussion it is no limits, as God has no limits discussion of what God is, have limits?

The best part though is at 15 I was asked to build a place with all religions
I set up the site I was making tons of daft similar sites to this, learning this has.

So I asked God should I make a site for you. That night on TV everything and to finish it off my friend rang me and made sure I watched a document thinks of God. It made me cry with happiness as I couldn't believe how yes build the site.

So to take the thread back to its origins, as Brenda put it is just a simple
Which is why I asked her so many questions on ancient Hebrew, a bit over is hard to understand.

So the point is this, with ancient Hebrew and many early languages each people when they were named as a child they were given a name to inspire almost prophesizing over them of who they would be.

So with in Yeshua's name I will repeat my self, it mean something entirely If you follow Pauline doctrine and John then this is not a problem, yet if and Christ's brother as you would be from only his teaching and not the a big difference, as his name Yeshua is funky and so means he was a cool show the way of working to worship God.

Which if we go over his teachings was his mission.

Do you understand what I am getting at? Jesus sounds woolly! Yeshua sounds When someone asks you who are you?

You reply by your name, I have done millions of surveys on the UK, while name made the character a lot of times. By the time I finished doing the person name was before they told me as you could see the character. The did you know?" I would say "I don't know", yet really it is this.
