Babylon is drunk from the blood of the saints she has killed over the millennium. The scripture is talking about. If you want to attack communion, you are going to use the verse that deals with that. This is just one of your problems wizanda. You are correct according to your understanding, but often use the wrong verses. That's why few will hang with you. You seem like you are really medicated because you constantly trip up like that. If you think communion is satanic, try to show that. Using the scripture that Babylon is drunk from the blood of the saints doesn't work for communion.. It makes you look like you're off the chain. Well, and when anybody tries to help you by pointing these things out, you go to heaven.. Nobody cares about that. And also that doesn't guarantee you anything is based on doing the right thing your whole life.. If you do good, then don't become a bad person 6 months before you die, you don't get salvation.. Sometimes you have been to heaven at all, that doesn't mean you can receive eternal life.

You know what I mean, now straighten up and act right.. What the hell is that? You act like a pompous ass at times, other times it's like "oh poor me" "I've been to heaven".. No one cares about that. What they care about is you tearing down and building doctrine out of that. You do the same thing Babylon does. You use the blood of the murdered saints that Babylon is drunk with; and to say that communion is satanic. You don't even make sense anymore, you seem to be heavily medicated or something because you float way too much.. Sometimes you're OK, other times you're in a huge way. Now you straighten up and get focused. This ain't no game. We need home, and we need clarity..not this bullshit! peace...

Bottom line; anyone who dishonors the martyrs like you just did, will perish. You can't slam martyrs and expect mercy from the Father. And you can't change the meaning of those verses. You're disgusting for doing that! Quit that! In Yashua's name - amen!
